In previous posts, some of you indicated in the comments section about the solutions that I support. Throughout the course of the year I try to provide a glimpse at substantive solutions I support, here on the Greeneyeshade Blog.

Last week at the Republican retreat in Baltimore, Maryland, House Minority Leader John Boehner offered a booklet of Republican solutions to the President when he came to speak during our retreat. Everyone ought to have a chance to a take a look at these, so you can find them here: http://www.gop.gov/solutions

Additionally, under the leadership of Congressman Paul Ryan (R-WI), I have worked on and support, the Patient's Choice Act . This proposal is a bill designed at helping to improve our healthcare system without an intrusive and unnecessary government takeover.

You should also take a minute to look at another proposal I support, which is considerably broader and encompasses health care security, retirement security, federal tax reform, job training, and budget process reform. This initiative is called the Roadmap to America's Future, and you can read more about using the link I have provided.
