

Today, U.S. Rep. John Campbell (R-Calif.), chairman of the Budget and Spending Taskforce for the Republican Study Committee, made the following statement regarding the fiscally irresponsible budget passed by Democrats in the House of Representatives: “The Democrat’s idea of fiscal responsibility is... Today, U.S. Rep. John Campbell (R-Calif.), chairman of the Budget and Spending Taskforce for the Republican Study Committee, made the following statement regarding the fiscally irresponsible budget passed by Democrats in the House of Representatives:

“The Democrat’s idea of fiscal responsibility is to tax and spend Americans out of economic prosperity. At the heart of this anti-taxpayer budget is the largest tax increase in American history. The enormous tax increase would raise taxes by an average of $3,000 per taxpayer per year. These increases would affect every tax bracket, slash the child tax credit, reinstate the marriage penalty and eliminate the tax relief that has benefited the economy the most.

“It’s clear there are two distinct philosophies about what is best for this country. The Democrats have passed a budget that raises taxes and raids the Social Security Trust Fund in order to pay for new spending. The Republican alternative would have balanced the budget by slowing the growth of government and not raising taxes or touching Social Security.”